

Still Running Wild

---

Article by: Sarah McBride

Its name means a small yet hardy wild horse that could most probably be a descendant of the Arabian horses. And for many years since its introduction, this vehicle has lived up to its name and charged through the automobile world and has been the top selling sports car for nineteen years straight as well as holding the best selling convertible of America spot. It would be quite surprising if most people would not know what this vehicle is. Certainly, this vehicle is the Ford Mustang, who has made its first entrance to the public back in the year 1964. And even if it has stayed that long in the market, it still is one of the most popular sports cars the globe over.

This vehicle has been the icon of American vehicles and performance. It holds a bold style, a brawny and strong engine, and excitement that finds its source from its rear wheel drive. The 2006 Ford Mustang has a V6 engine that the company dubbed as the "Pony Package". It holds 18 inch wheels, new colors, a custom grille with fog lamps, and an interior upgrade. This vehicle has been made available in different trim models that include the standard, the deluxe, and the premium package. As per the last year, this sports car has been acclaimed as the Most Significant Vehicle, which is an award that is given out by Edmunds.com. Also, the Ford Mustang received the Official Car of Summer award given this time by the Outside magazine. It also raced its way up AutoWeek's and Ward's Auto World's list of top 10 cars and 10 best vehicles respectively.

Because of the Ford Mustang's colorful history, this sports can still owns the signature long hood and short rear deck along with its C-scoops in the side, the three-element tail lamps, and the galloping horse badge that is located at the center of the grille that was has been its natural identity in its entire history. What has been added up for the 2006 Ford Mustang is that it now holds Pony front fender badges, a lower door tape stripe, carpeted front floor mats that has been badged with a special brushed chrome "Mustang" logos, and a rear spoiler. It also features four-wheel disc brakes that has the anti-lock braking system and traction control. One of the new accessories and customizations that a 2006 Ford Mustang owner could have is its instrument panel that, as the first in the industry, is color-configurable and which owners could choose to mix and match lighting at the touch of a button. With this, owners could create more than 125 different color backgrounds for their instrument panel.Ford parts

Ford Mustang parts

-----

As a manager of one of the largest auto store in Springfield,Massachussets, Sarah has extensive expertise on auto parts and automotives in general. This 42 year old is a certified car enthusiast.